

PRESERVE NEW MILFORD'S FOREST LAND !

DON'T LET THEM CUT DOWN 68 ACRES OF TREES FOR AN ENERGY PLAN THAT WAS REJECTED BY THE STATE !

Connecticut joined a multi-state effort to encourage clean energy - but soon found they were losing enormous amounts of forest and active farmland to solar sprawl.

That original plan's flaws were so obvious, the state passed new legislation, effective July 1, 2017, to curtail such development on core forests or active farmland. Yet a local developer is still going ahead with a plan to exploit the original law, with a request that was rushed in just 72 hours before the new state restrictions went into effect. The New Milford Town Council voted to grant a tax abatement for this project, forcing the community to subsidize the project. It's now up to the state Siting Council to decide whether to side for this development or to honor the spirit of the revised law.

"I hereby call upon the Connecticut Siting Council to reject the plan by Candlewood Solar, and its stated intention to clear-cut over 68 acres of forest - originally submitted as part of a program that has now been revised by the state to forbid exactly such destructive projects.

I further call upon the New Milford Town Council to protect its land and rural way of life by reversing its vote on a tax abatement for this project, and I request that the Town Council send a statement to the Connecticut Siting Council asking them to reject this plan."
